

GOYETTE'S BODY ARRIVES

Was Drowned in Eastland Disaster at Chicago Saturday.

Father and Two Brothers Also on the Steamer but Escaped. The Former Receiving Injuries—Many Heartrending Scenes.

Lyle, Francis and Cornelius Goyette, and their aunt, Mrs. Agnes Apple, arrived in this city Tuesday from Chicago with the body of their brother and nephew, Charles Goyette, who was drowned Saturday in the Eastland disaster. When seen Tuesday night, they had stories of the catastrophe so overwhelming to relate that one would almost think them unbelievable or impossible to happen in real life. G. A. Goyette, father of Lyle, Francis, Cornelius, and Charles, who was lost, was unable to make the trip, having sustained a dislocated knee in the accident. Joseph Winkel, son of George Winkel of North Avenue, was also on the Eastland, but escaped.

The father is general foreman of the service maintenance department of the Western Electric company, while Lyle and Francis are in the tool-making trade. These three were on the boat at the time of the disaster, which took place about an hour after the boat rolled over. Mr. Goyette, senior, was sitting in the cabin reading a newspaper when the Eastland began to list. With the final lurch, he was thrown into a corner, under the chairs and tables which were in the room. After several minutes of agony under the weight of the chairs and water, he managed to extricate himself and caught hold of the stairway. He called to many of the people near to catch hold of the stairway, which they did, with the result that it broke and Mr. Goyette lost his hold. Fortunately, he came up again in almost the same place, and caught hold again. After holding on to the stairway and assisting others to places of safety for about two hours, he was rescued. Mr. Goyette could not remember all that happened during the time he was in the water. His son, Cornelius, assisted him to a hospital, where his knee was set and put in a cast.

Lyle Goyette and his wife had just got on the steamer, and consequently were down on the main deck below, when the accident occurred. By clinging to a window where the baggage was put in and out, Mr. Goyette assisted his wife and others out to the side of the boat, whence they slid down to the propeller shaft, remaining there until they were rescued. Mr. and Mrs. Goyette were among the last ones on the boat, and stated that he was listing at that time.

Francis Goyette was on the second deck at the time the disaster occurred. He was a local swimmer, and assisted some to shore, after which he returned to the boat, where he stayed for some hours, helping others to get placed on the shore. Cornelius Goyette, who is employed by the Goss Printing company, was at his office at the time, but, receiving word of the disaster, hastened to the scene. At first he had word that all his brothers and father were safe, but later a cousin, Earl Curtis, employed by the O. W. Richardson company, recognized the body of Charles as it lay in a warehouse near the scene of the disaster. Previous to this, he had gone to the coroner and obtained a pass, which allowed him to pass through the police lines and search the warehouse and improvised morgues for relatives or friends, as he formerly worked for the Western Electric company. The body of Charles was brought to the second regiment armory late Saturday night, and with it the party left Chicago Monday afternoon, arriving in this city on the 6:30 train Tuesday evening.

HEARTRENDING SCENES.

Some of the scenes they saw were heartrending. The bodies of little babies were everywhere; women's shrieks and cries for help could be heard on all sides. Although the bodies did not exude, the hot water escaped, and one woman was seen in it with just her head out of water, slowly seeping to death. The water soon became clogged with bodies, some crushed and mangled, and others limp, showing that the unfortunate had had no chance to fight for his or her life. Some were driven insane by the shock, and others immersion in the boisterous water with hundreds of bodies. One woman was taken out of the hold Sunday with her baby asleep in her arms. Both were alive, but the woman was stark mad after the day of horror. On all sides of her were bodies, over a hundred in all.

All agreed that it was a sight never to be forgotten, and day and night they see and hear the terrible scenes over and over again.

Upon investigation, the Goyettes found that, counting the musicians, crew, etc., there were about 250 people on the boat at the time of the accident. The people were packed in like cattle. The water ballast had been taken out when the boat came up the river, and it had been put in while the Eastland was moored to the wharf. The boat drew 15 feet ordinarily, and the river is 21 feet deep. With 250 people on board, the boat must have been on bottom, and this was later proved, as it was found to be sunk two feet in the mud. With a steady stream of people crowding on, and passing to the off side of the boat, with a little incline of the bottom of the river, the boat would tilt that way, and soon this strain would tend to break the rope holding the boat to the dock. This would do away with the theory that the tug started before the rope had been cast off, thus causing the accident.

The funeral of Charles Goyette was held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Mary's Cathedral, with interment in St. Joseph's cemetery.

BRADSTREET'S VERMONT WEEKLY TRADE REPORT

Bradstreet's Burlington office reports that while the majority of manufacturing lines outside of those industries that are operating on foreign orders, have complained to some extent regarding general conditions, indicating small orders and orders for immediate shipment, the condition of the State as a whole, regarding the position of the individual to buy, is classified as reasonably good. The pipe organ industry reports the volume of business to have increased to some extent.

Certain manufacturers of machinery report delay in receiving shipments of raw materials. On the other hand, paper manufacturers note little if any improvement. Jobbers in gummed paper are not placing orders at present, only in a small way and no trouble is experienced in obtaining quick shipments for paper mills. The granite manufacturers report a little better feeling at the present regarding the outlook for fall business. A month ago they advanced the opinion that the volume of fall business would be light. The prospect at the moment, however, is reasonably good but stone for building purposes is affected by the less amount of building work in progress as was reflected in a recent report. The demand for marble is indicated as only fair, although some marble manufacturers report some good sized orders. The conditions of crops has been greatly improved by recent rains. A month ago a drought threatened to do considerable damage but this situation has been passed and higher water is noted in the larger streams than is general for this period. Some farmers anticipate the harvest of hay crop will show 75 per cent of normal while those farmers that seeded down their field this spring report a yield above the average. Retail trade fluctuates according to the locality. Both dry goods and clothing merchants are reported as conservative about placing orders for the future. The demand for garments is noted as fairly good. One small failure is recorded for the week. Collections are reported as unimproved. July 24, 1915.

CATHEDRAL WEDDINGS.

Two Early Morning Ceremonies at St. Mary's.

A very pretty and quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Mary's Cathedral at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning when Miss Lillian Catherine Kelley, only daughter of John Francis and the late Mary Kelley of this city, was united in marriage with Dr. Leonard A. McCambridge, son of Dr. Catherine McCambridge of Kingston, Ontario. The marriage service was performed by the Rt. Rev. Joseph P. Gilles, V. G., within the sanctuary. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played on the organ by Mrs. V. E. Nelson, who also rendered "O Promise Me" during the ceremony and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party left the church.

Mrs. C. J. McCambridge, sister-in-law of the groom, attended the bride as matron of honor, and the groom was attended by John B. Kelley, brother of the bride. The wedding party was limited to only the immediate relatives and friends of the couple on account of the recent death of the bride's mother. The bride wore a becoming traveling suit of dark silk poplin and a black straw bird-of-paradise hat. She carried her mother's posy. Her mother-in-law wore a dark blue Chin-Chin suit and a white satin picture hat.

Following the ceremony at the church the wedding party enjoyed a breakfast at the bride's home at 240 Maple street. Dr. and Mrs. McCambridge left on the 11:55 train for Atlantic City, N. J., and after October 1st will be at home in New York, where they will reside until Dr. McCambridge completes his three years' post-graduate course on the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Mrs. McCambridge was graduated from the Burlington high school with the class of 1909 and for the past nine years has been acting secretary of Judge Seneca Haselet, during which time in close association with and study of the law she has made herself a proficient student.

The many beautiful wedding gifts received by her, which include cut glass, china and several substantial checks, attest to the high favor in which she is held by her large circle of friends. Dr. McCambridge is a graduate of Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., and is now specializing in post-graduate work in New York.

LINEHAN-GILL.

The wedding of John Linehan and Miss Margaret C. Gill was solemnized Monday morning at six o'clock at St. Mary's Cathedral by Rev. J. M. Kennedy. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Agnes Cowan, as matron of honor, and the groom had Walter G. Durey as his best man. The bride wore a white corduroy suit and a white hat. She carried a posy. The matron of honor wore a dark blue suit and a black hat, and carried a corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister at 62 Loomis street to relatives and intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Linehan left for Rochester, N. Y., where they will be the guests of the bride's brother, A. P. Gill, going from there to Lowell, Mass., where the groom is employed.

SOME CHILD IDEAS OF WAR.

Having mobilized a little regiment of children, and armed them with pencil and paper, Pio Vanz, the Italian caricaturist, recently set for them the task of sketching their impressions of the war. Writing in Cartoons Magazine, he says: "A noticeable idiosyncrasy in the representation of the wound. The soldier lies upon his back because he is dead. It is well, therefore, to show plainly the fatal wound. Accordingly, the pencil describes a hole in the stomach."

The child is accustomed to regard this part of the anatomy as his most vulnerable point. Here center the pains of indigestion following overindulgence in cakes or green apples; here hot pox boils and plasters are applied when he is ill; here take place the violent upheavals caused by the abhorred castor oil. The "tummy" is the child's Achilles heel. It is in the stomach, consequently, that the soldier must receive his ghastly wound. "Observe with what gusto the small boy depicts a bayonet attack! Here is a weapon to his liking. It pierces the stomach, front to back, makes a beautiful wound, and never misses its object."

NEW PROPRIETOR FOR PORT HENRY HOTEL.

The New Brunswick Hotel at Port Henry, N. Y., for the past year under the management of W. A. Joubert of Ticonderoga, has been leased by Ralph G. King, who will conduct a thoroughly up-to-date hotel. A grill is being added for the convenience of automobilists, two large rooms on the ground floor being set aside for this purpose. Other radical improvements are under way.

Vermont Notes

Hillview Poultry Farms, Lead in Egg Contest.

Rhode Island Reds Expected to Hold First Place—George Warner, Convicted of Murder, in State Prison for Safe Keeping.

The 37th week of the fourth annual international egg laying contest at Storrs Agricultural Experiment Station at Storrs, Conn., shows Hillview Poultry Farm, St. Albans, with Rhode Island Reds, at the head, with a score of 1,458. The farm's Rhode Island Reds have been a close second since the ninth week of the contest, except when they dropped down to third place from the 30th to the 32nd week. It was not until the current week of the competition that this Vermont pen has been able to take the lead and even though they are ahead by the small margin of one egg it is believed from the general condition of the birds, their disposition to broodiness and other considerations, that the American hens will hold the lead at least for the next few weeks.

WARNER TAKEN TO STATE PRISON.

George Warner, who was convicted of murder by a jury in Windsor county court at Woodstock recently, was removed to the State prison at Windsor July 29 under an order from the Governor, since Sheriff J. H. Kinley did not consider the county jail at Woodstock a safe place to keep him.

$300 FOR REV. P. J. LONG.

At a reception given the Rev. P. J. Long of Proctor by the townspeople Wednesday July 21 on his departure to assume charge at St. Augustine's Church, Montpelier, a purse of $300 was presented to him. About 400 people attended the reception. A concert program was given by the Proctor band.

ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING.

The annual campmeeting of the Advent Christian Church of Vermont will be held at Bethel August 17 to 24. The meeting will be in charge of the Rev. Orin B. Brock of Roxbury, assisted by the Rev. O. W. Brook of Hootick Falls, N. Y. Other clergymen who are expected to take part are the Reverends A. E. Pace of Waterbury, G. A. Osman of Rutland, E. E. Lombard of Enosburg Falls, Clarke Duval of Newbury and W. O. Higley of Castleton. This campmeeting is run on old-fashioned lines and is growing in attendance each year.

CAN VERMONT GIRLS CAN?

Farmers' Legislative Club Evidently Thinks So and Offers Prizes.

The Farmers' Legislative club was organized during the membership of the 1903 Legislature during the session, and an evidence of the interest taken by the club in the welfare of the young ladies of the State comes to light in the premium book of the Vermont State fair, which is just from the press. The club offers three prizes of $12, $8 and $5 for the best collection of canned fruits and vegetables, home-grown preferred, to include strawberries, raspberries, currants, apples, rhubarb, plums, peaches, beans, corn, greens (any variety) and sweet pickles.

The State fair commission expects there will be much interest taken in this special prize and that a large and interesting exhibit will be made. It is hoped that every section of the State will be represented by the work of one or more young ladies. Every young lady under 18 years of age is eligible to compete. The conditions governing the contest are: (a) use one quart cans; (b) state on label pasted on jar (c) method of cooking; (d) length of time cooked; (e) ingredients; (f) cost in time and money; exhibits to be judged by the following score card, quantity 50 per cent, appearance 10 per cent, cost 10 per cent.

CAMP OF INSTRUCTION.

Machine Gun Companies at Fort Ethan Allen with Capt. Smedberg as Teacher.

Monday was a busy day at the instruction camp for the men of the machine gun companies of organized militia who are taking advantage of the school of instruction that is being conducted by Capt. William R. Smedberg of Fort Ethan Allen on the reservation near the machine gun quarters. The morning was taken up by the men of those companies which have arrived in setting up their tents and organizing camp. In the afternoon Captain Smedberg gave a lecture and demonstration on the nomenclature of the automatic machine rifle. There are in the camp of instruction the machine gun troop of the Second cavalry, the machine gun company of the 9th infantry from Plattsburgh, under the command of Capt. W. A. Carlton, five machine gun companies of the organized militia of Massachusetts, one company of the New Hampshire militia and one troop of the New York militia. In all, there are about 250 men. The first of the companies arrived at the post Sunday night and other companies came Monday. The camp is to be broken on August 7.

The work with the men are in camp has to do with the scientific understanding of the machine guns, the principles of sighting, the packing of the machines and the management of pack animals, direction and elevation of drills, range practice, estimation of distances, use of the range finding instruments, communication methods, etc. The instruction camp is in command of the oldest man in the use of the guns in the United States army. Captain Smedberg, who wrote the book of rules and regulations which is used by the army.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Mrs. G. P. Burns Injured When Car Is Struck by Another Machine.

Mrs. G. P. Burns received serious injuries to an afternoon Tuesday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by another machine. The accident seems to be one which could easily have been avoided and, according to those who witnessed it, was the result of reckless driving. The car which was responsible for the accident bore the Vermont license number 1967 and is said to be the property of Mrs. Josephine N. Wood of North Ferrisburg. The accident was placed in the hands of State's Attorney Hopkins for investigation.

Mrs. Burns was driving her car, with her two little daughters on the back seat, she turned on to University place from Colchester avenue and was driving toward Main street when she saw Elias Lyman's automobile approaching with the machine which caused the accident trailing it. When in front of the Billings Library Mrs. Burns saw that the last car was about to attempt to pass the Lyman car and stopped her machine so that when it was struck it was at a standstill. The chauffeur of the Lyman car, when he understood that the car at the rear was about to pass, saved his machine by turning on to the lawn. The other car came on and in turning by the end of the Lyman car crashed into Mrs. Burns's machine, the bumper hitting the left front wheel and throwing over the steering wheel. During the contact Mrs. Burns received a severe cut on her left forearm.

The man who was driving car 1967, instead of waiting to see what damage he had wrought, is said to have backed off and reversing his gear, put on more speed and traveled down Pearl street. In his car on the rear seat were two other people. The man's name has not been learned but it is known that Mr. Lyman put the case in the hands of the State's attorney and it is expected prosecution will follow. Mrs. Burns was taken to Dr. J. N. Jones's office, where several stitches were required to close the wound. Neither of the little girls was injured. The mud guard on the Burns car was badly crushed and the running board was smashed. The bumper on the other car seemed to have saved it.

BUCKS IN JAIL.

Family Row Reaches Such Proportions That Much Blood Is Spilt.

There was an exciting time at the home of Theodore Buck and his wife, Jennie, at 30 York street during the early hours of Tuesday evening. The family row resulting in landing both in the county jail on intoxication charges. This was not accomplished, however, until after the police emergency automobile had made several hurried trips between their home, the jail and the hospital.

The police were attracted to the place by neighbors who said that a family quarrel which had reached more than the usual vehemence was in progress, and they were of the opinion that Mrs. Buck was receiving or had already received a sound beating from her husband. When the officers entered the house was hushed and the couple were seen to be in a room on the second floor. The man and the woman at the foot. Near the door of the bedroom there was a pool of blood, and much more blood was smeared over the bedclothes. Upon investigation it was found that the woman was the one who was losing the blood, and Dr. Hammond was summoned. He found an ugly looking cut on the back of her head and the police ambulance was summoned. Theodore was first taken to the county jail for safe keeping, and at the same time three pint bottles of "spit" were carried to the office.

The machine then returned to the house and took Jennie to the Mary Fletcher hospital for treatment. As the officers had congratulated themselves that the two were safely taken care of, word was received from the hospital to the effect that the woman had not received a dangerous cut and had been attended to but was making such a disturbance that she was fast arounding all of the patients in the institution. So the car was sent up to bring her down to the jail.

UNCLE SAM'S MAIL.

Parcel Post Exhibit at Essex Fair—State League of Postmasters.

The Burlington postoffice will have a parcel post display at the Essex Center fair, which is a move in conjunction with the carrying of by order of the State throughout the United States to bring before the general public the benefits to be derived from this part of the national mail service and at the same time to instruct the people how to use the department. No extra expense is put on to the department by the display which has been made by the management of the fair where they are given being eager to get the advertisement which such an exhibition affords.

Postmaster-General Burleson is giving this movement to acquaint the public with the parcel post system his hearty support. At the time of the display there will be a clerk thoroughly versed in the system who will be ready to describe the various zone areas. He will also give demonstrations of the correct way to wrap a package that it may be safely through the mail. The department is at present handling at the rate of one million pieces of parcel post mail per year and it is expected that this year's meeting will be an exceptionally large gathering.

EX-GOV. SMITH AND VERMONT.

(From the News and Citizen.)

Ex-Gov. E. C. Smith manifests the right sort of spirit for Vermont's prosperity. After the sale of the Robin Hood works at Swanton to the Remington company he proceeded to organize the International Explosives company with headquarters in the same town. "Vermont first, last and all the time" is the ex-governor's slogan.

BURBANK'S LATEST.

One day Luther Burbank was walking in his garden, when he was accosted by an officious acquaintance, who said: "Well, what are you working on now?" "Trying to cross an elephant and a milkweed," said Mr. Burbank. "And what under heaven do you expect to get from that?"

A NATURAL MISTAKE.

A certain Chicago business man has had a great deal of trouble with his workmen, a number of whom have from time to time evinced a disposition to "sneak" off. On one occasion when the Chicago man, in company with his brother, was visiting the farm of a friend in southern Illinois, the two observed an uncouth figure standing in a distant field. "Since it isn't moving," observed the brother, "it must be a watermelon." "That isn't a watermelon," said the other, after a long gaze at the figure. "That's a man working by the day!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

WAR THROUGH YANKEE EYES

Banker Says England Is Ready to Go It Alone.

Has Taken Heavier Toll of German Submarines Than the Public Knows—Steel Net in North Sea—Sweden Wobbling.

A member of a banking house who has returned from several weeks in England says "England has reached the point of determination where it is bound to see this war through to its conclusion. There is no talk now of thought of peace in England and will be none until the Germans are thoroughly humbled. England is so determined that she is prepared to go it alone if necessary. But of this there is no likelihood despite the constant threats of the Russians."

"England has now planted its submarines in the Baltic. They have already launched one German battleship that we know about. Their presence has had the effect of bottling the German navy up at the Baltic."

"The British have destroyed far more German submarines than has been told about. The total runs into very sizable figures, which it is probably not well to have known just at this juncture. The English record against German submarines will be told some day. At present it constitutes one of the unknowns, but in reality one of the most splendid phases of England's naval power."

"There is only one nation in Europe which is today wobbling at all towards the German side. This is Sweden. Sweden is not anti-British nor anti-French, but is intensely anti-Russian and the Russian defeats are something of a temptation to Sweden. Were it not that Sweden is so dependent upon England for coal and foodstuffs, it would not be surprised to see her join the Germans. But she hesitates to jump into the fray with the problem of food supply so unsettled of course, what Sweden wants is to get back Finland, and this Germany is undoubtedly using as a bait to tempt the Swedes. The English know that very large quantities of food are being smuggled into Germany through Sweden, and that the Swedish government is winking at a good many things."

"There is ground for the belief that between England and France stretches a great steel net running down 20 feet in some places. This is held taut by trawlers, and is patrolled constantly by destroyers. The net is electrified and connected with floating electric lights on the surface so that when a German submarine touches the net notice is flashed to the waiting torpedo boat destroyers. In this way many a German submarine has come to its end. I am also told that the same kind of a net is being stretched between England and Ireland."

"The real situation in the Balkan peninsula is more favorable to the allies than the public suppose. For three weeks the British war department has expected the Turks to crack. They are definitely known to be short of ammunition. It is believed that August will see such a famine on the Turkish side that the end will be in sight. The allied fleet is under stood to be returning from its hideout in the German submarines all being accounted for. The fleet will be of vast assistance in helping the land forces."

"There is a feeling in very high circles in England that Kitchener is on the wane. The blame for the ammunition shortage is placed on his shoulders. He tried to permit the army—I might say create the army—and at the same time provide it with munitions. It was too much of a job. It was a business job, and Kitchener is a soldier accustomed to doing things by first. England has muddled through this situation, losing six months' time. She is on the right track now, and has the right man at the helm in the munition department."

"The British navy is proving that the German ships will come out for a fight. There is a chance that as Germany's submarines approach the vanishing point the navy will make a desperate attempt to give battle. Then things may begin to happen that will shake the seas!"—Boston News Bureau.

VERMONT AT THE FRONT.

(From the Bradford Opinion.)

Our state commissioner of agriculture has had a letter from one of the foremost growers of potatoes on Long Island and he writes that seed potatoes from Vermont were the best he had had and that out of six varieties, only one other was as good as the Vermont contribution. Here is a chance for Vermont. The market seems to be open and the reputation is right, the only thing left is to take advantage of the market and to keep up the quality.
